Visiting County Agent Due Here

Ernesto Arias, Visiting County Agent from Costa Rica, will be working with us in Comanche County for about ten months.

If everything works out we should pick Arias up at Texas A&M around the 30th or 31st of January.

Arias has a B.S. Degree in Agriculture from Texas A&M in 1949 and a M.S. Degree in Agronomy from the University of Costa Rica in 1952. He has been working as a county agent in Costa Rica since 1952.

Arias and his wife are the parents of five children: Cecilia, 14, second year in high school, who is a stamp collector; Myriam, 13, first year in high school, whose hobby is sewing; Ernesto, 12, in the sixth grades, likes to play all games boys enjoy; Fernando, 4, and Luis Digo, 2½.

Mrs. Arias and children are not with Mr. Arias at the present time. It is our understanding that he plans to send for them as soon as he can find living quarters.

J. H. Hall Seeks Justice of Peace

J. H. Hall, appointed recently by the Commissioners Court as Justice of Peace, Precinct No. 1, Comanche, to fill the vacancy created by the sudden death of Otis A. Braziel, this week authorized The Chief to announce his candidacy for the unexpired term of office. Hall seeks the Democratic nomination, subject to action of the May 2 primary as nominee to the post, which will extend two years from next January 1.

Mr. Hall, a native of the Sidney community, has lived in Comanche for the past 19 years, where he formerly was engaged in the grocery business. Presently he and Mrs. Hall operate the Comanche Courts, E. Central. For four years, Hall served on the City Council, and then six years as mayor of Comanche.

"My present duties as Justice of Peace, Precinct No. 1, keep me busy, however, I shall make a special effort to see as many persons as possible. Should I fail to see you, please realize that I am first obligated to my post, but assure you that I will deeply appreciate your friendship and support," Hall said.

Salvation Army Committee Here Cited For Good Job

Dan Eddy, Director of the Service Unit Department of The Salvation Army in Dally recently commended the Comanche Service Unit for the extensive welfare program which it conducted during 1963. Eddy, in making his statement said that the annual Activity Report clearly indicated the sincerety with which traditional forms of assistance are administered by the Comanche volunteer committee.

The emergency assistance rendered to men, women, and children in temporary distress included groceries, shoes, medicine, hospital care, boys to summer camp, lodging meals, transportation, utility assistance, aid to school children and other forms of help.

As The Salvation Army has no staff in Comanche its affairs are handled at the complete discretion of the Comanche Committee which includes Herbert Goodson, Chairman, E. A. Kerby, Jr., treasurer, Mrs. Ruth Loudermilk, welfare secretary and committeemen Elzo Brinson, Bill Dudney, Sheriff Belve Bean and Mrs. Kathleen Eads. Mrs. Eads also serves as Summer Camp Chairman each summer.

The Salvation Army is a participating agency in the Comanche United Fusd.

IN COLLEGE PLAY — Sandra Blackwood, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. D. Blackwood, Comanche, a freshman at McMurry College, Abilene, and a member of the McMurry Theater, has recently been selected to the cast of "House of Barnarda Alba." The production will be given March 5-6-7 on McMurry campus.

Martha Chilton 'Living Memorial' Started For Church

The following self-explanitory letter was given to The Chief for publication by the Board of the Central Christian Church, Comanche.

In loving memory of our daughter, Martha Jane Chilton, we her parents wish to establish a Living Memorial of $1,000 to her. This $1,000 will be deposited in the State National Bank, Comanche in an account styled — "Martha Chilton Memorial Fund of the Central Christian Church, Comanche, Texas.

This fund is to be used for any and all Noble, Charitable, Educational and Christian purposes of the Church as determined and directed by the Board of the church.

It is our wish that the Board pass on, authorize and direct the use of all funds in this account. Checks should be signed by the Chairman of the Board and cosigned by the Secretary after being duly authorized by the Board.

It is our belief that in many cases, at the death or a person, a donation to a Charitable Cause, such as this, is more appropriate, more useful, more appreciated and yest more of a lasting Christian benefit than flowers which wither and die within a few hours.

In light of this and in the light of the trend of our times in this direction it is our belief and hope that many people in the future will wish to contribute to the fund, and thereby keep it as a living, useful and growing blessing to humanity.

May God in his infinite love bless all who see fit in the future to donate to this fund and may He in His infinite wisdom guide and direct its use for the benefit of all Mankind.

It is our desirethat a copy of this letter be made a part of the minutes of the Church for use and direction of its board.

Homer Miller Candidate For Commissioner 3

Homer Miller, Lamkin resident all of his life, who served Comanche County as Commissioner, Precinct No. 3 for 12 years prior to 1960, this week announced his candidacy for the post he formerly held.

Miller's name will be found in The Chief's regular political announcement column.

In seeking to become Commissioner, Precinct No. 3 again, the candidate said he would wage an active campaign, and bases his qualifications on his record in the office during his 12-year tenure, 1948-1960.

Miller said he welcomes an inquiry by those who may not be acquainted with his past record. "Too, I will deeply appreciate the support of my many friends in Precinct No. 3, and in return, if elected, I will endeavor to serve not only our precinct, but Comanche County as a whole, in a capable manner."

Miller, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ed Miller, longtime residents of the Lamkin community, and his wife, the former Beulah Cooper, also a Lamkin native, reside on and operate their farm in their native community.

The Millers are parents of two children: Kenneth Miller, coach and teacher in the Crest schools, near Plainview; and Mrs. Charlie (Wanda) Massingill of Lamkin, whose husband is stationed in Germany with the U.S. Army. The Kenneth Millers and the Massingills have a daughter each.

INDIANS DOWN GRANBURY, 8-AA LEAD NOW SHARED BY THREE TEAMS

The Comanche Indians threw the district 8-AA race into a 3 way tie Tuesday night, when they inflicted a 63-44 win over the previously unbeaten Granbury. Comanche, Granbury and Cisco, all with a 4-1 record, share the lead, at the end of the first round of play.

The Indian Maidens and the Granbury girls, both undefeated going into the contest, played a real thriller — with Pirates edging past the Maidens 42-39.

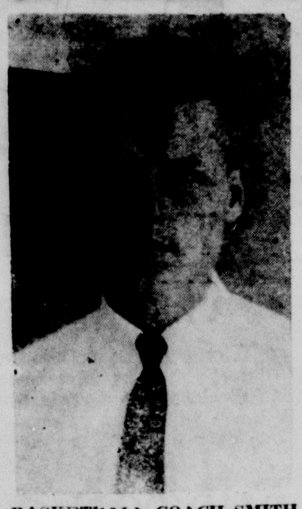
..The Maidens jumjed off to an early lead, and were out in front 11-5, at the end of the first quarter. Unable to hit from the field in the second quarter, the local lasses just scored three points and trailed, 19-14 at halftim.

The Maidents fell even further behind in the third quarter — trailing as much as 11 points, but with only a minute and a half left to go the local lasses had pulled to within 2 points of Granbury. But the rally fell short and Granbury remained unbeaten in district play.

FLETCHER LEADS ATTACK

The Indians, turning in their best performance of the season, got off to an early lead, and at the end of the first period, were out in front 12-9.

At half-time, the Indians had stretched their lead to 27-11, and at the end of three quarters had a 21 point bulge 49-28.



BASKETBALL COACH SMITH . . . Good Team Effort

Applying a full courth press throughout the game, the performance was the best of the year for the Indians. Tall Hugh Fletcher led the Indian offensive attack with 19 points, but got good support form all of his teammates.

Billy Williams had a "good" night — coming up with sixteen points, hitting from the field 6 times Tommy Willis had a big ten points form his guard position, Skipper Shumpes, at a forward added 9 more, and Coney Elliott, the only senior on the starting team, had eight. Don Fiest scored 1 to wind out the Inidans scoring.

Whitley, of the visitors had 14 followed by Ingram and Everett with 7 each.

This is an important election year in the history of Texas and the United States.

* *

Last week Idaho became the 38th State to vote in favor of outlawing the poll tax as a requirement for voting in National Elections. The vote was in favor of a U. S. Constitutional amendment along that line, which goes into effect when ratified by three-fourths of the States of the Union.

* *

As means of enlightening all of us pertaining to the Federal-State voting requirements, we reproduce the following released by Texas Governor John Connally in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram on Wednesday, Jan. 22:

* *

Governor Connally warned Texans Tuesday they will get "only half a vote" if they ignore payment of poll taxes because of the federal poll tax ban.

* *

The South Dakota State Senate could act Thursday (Jan. 24) on ratification of the Federal constitutional amendment. If it concurs in approval by the South Dakota House, South Dakota would be the final state needed to make the amendment a part of the Constitution.

* *

"One of the reasons many of us advocated repeal of the Texas poll tax last year was to avoid confusion when the 24th Amendment to the Federal Constitution was ratified by the states," Connally said in a statement. "Unfortunately, the Texas poll tax will remain on the books.

* *

"Some of the confusion should be lessened by the foresight of the Texas Legislature in providing a registration procedure in the event of Federal poll tax repeal," Connally said.

* *

The provision calls for a 30-day registration period after ratification. Holders of the registration certificates—in the form of free poll tax receipts marked "poll tax not paid"—will be allowed to vote only in races for President, Vice President and U. S. Senate and Congress.

* *

Holders of poll taxes, which will be sold only through Jan. 31, will be allowed to vote in all elections.

* *

"It is my belief that the vast maority of Teaxns will not want to exercise only half of their voting responsibilities. As long as we have a Texas poll tax, we should pay it and qualify ourselves to vote in all elections," Connally said.

* *

"Democracy means more than choosing our federal officials alone. Our system is based upon the solid rock of local self-government, and our political decisions in all elections should be made by the strongest possible majority of the voters," he said.

—o—

Most people in Texas seem to take it for granted that Lyndon Johnson will be nominated by the Democrats and elected President in the November election. We hold to this idea, too.

—o—

Changing the subject to athletics, we wish to state that we personally regret to see De Leon High School drop out of "AA" TIL status and will not compete in our district after this school year until another change is made. De Leon was always a strong contender and loved to win and that is the kind of a team it takes to make the game interesting.

* *

Then, too, De Leon is close at hand and saved at least a long trip. Any school further away than 75 miles makes it hard on games played that far away at night.

With De Leon gone, this leaves our district with only 5 schools, which means that one team must be idle as far as league play is concerned when the other four teams are playing each other.

* *

District members next school year, unless some other school is added, will be Comanche, Hamilton, Dublin, Cisco, and Granbury.

* *

We know of no other high school of Class AA standing within 75 miles of Comanche which might be added.

* *

San Saba would be a good team if available, but would be rather far for Granbury to play.

* *

Coleman made application to get into our district two years ago, but that school now has Class AAA status.

* *

De Leon will be pretty well situated, however, with Eastland, Ranger, Albany, Clyde and other teams of that sector.

—o—

President Johnson has announced plans to cut the Defense Department's civilian payroll below one million workers for the first time since 1950. He says next year'r military budget will be lower than this year by several million dollars.

—o—

One of the many functions of newspapers is to publish public notices. These notices are sometimes printed in large type, but more often in small type.

* *

These articles usually carry a message of vital importance to the public, such as elections, new laws, new taxes, and other regulations that often effect our daily life.

* *

These public notices are one of the basic protections of our Democratic Systems of Government. In recognition of this fact, the National Press Association has asked all weekly and daily newspapers to carry a series of articles about public notices to educate the publishers and readers alike.

* *

Dr. Charles L. Allen, Director of the School of Journalism of Oklahoma State University wrote the first of a series of articles that will appear in many newspapers of the United States, from which we quote.

* *

Nearly all these public notices today are published, but in the early days before the invention of printing, these notices were often carried from place to place by a messenger on foot sometimes, but more often on horse.

* *

Many public notices are mentioned in the Bible, such as the following:

"And it came to pass in those days that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus that all the world should be taxed.

"And all went to be taxed, every one in his own city.

"And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the City of Nazareth, into Judea, unto the City of David, which is called Bethlehem (Because he was of the house and lineage of David:).

"To be taxed with Mary, his espoused wife, being great with child."

* *

The Bible tells of many times when the people were notified to conform to some government decree from which there was no appeal. But public notice was born long before Joseph and Mary went up to Bethlehem.

* *

Where did it begin? Its origins are shrouded in the midst of antiquity. So long as there has been a society of human beings with the barest forms of systematic government, there have been public notices.

* *

In the society of ancient Greece, the nation of city-states that gave modern civilization much of its present culture, the gathering place in the center of the city, called the Agora, served as focal place for public notices. They were brought to the people's attention in several ways.

* *

First the Agora served as a public forum in which discussions took place between the leaders of Greek society. Public issues were the common substance of these discussions.

* *

The populist might have been well informed if it had not been for many restrictions. To begin with, no wives were allowed to take part in these public discussions nor even to hear them. Many slaves also were denied all rights, including any part in the government.

* *

Women, who became known as courtesans, were plentiful around the Argora, but they had no part in public affairs. Those who could be informed by the Agora discussions, were, therefore, the relatively small number of men who had first class citizenship.

* *

The Roman forum served the same purpose, and in that era, too, most of the people of the city were nenied full citizenship.

* *

Posting of public notices was common in both the Greek and Roman eras because there was no method of printing or otherwise disseminating copies of public notices.

* *

At best, these public discussions, posted public notices, and "the town crier type" of vocal notices were poor methods of keeping the people informed in an age when the government oligarchy cared little whether or not the people were informed, it made no difference how public notice was given.

* *

When printing was finally invented, it was used first only for church printing of Bibles, songs and the like.

* *

It was next used in trade on small printed sheets of paper not very unlike our present handbills. But all of these miscellaneous pieces of printing were without system, regularity, or dependable distribution.

* *

We have evidence that young boys distributed handbills in the late 15th, 16th and 17th Centuries. These handbills were often delivered by boys who did not take their work seriously, and to get through in a hurry, quickly learned to throw some handbills in rubbish heaps, just like some boys do today. No one given his preference, would trust any serious and important notice to a handbill.

* *

Early in the 16th Century there was invented a new method of spreading information. This was the "Office of Intelligences", which some say was a French invention, while others traced it to the Low Countries of Germany.

* *

Whatever the origin of the Office of Intelligence (sometimes called the "Office of Advice"), it became an established institution in several European countries and in England before the advent of the newspaper.

* *

Here is the way it worked: A man who had some pigs to sell would come to the Office of Intelligence located in a trade shop or sometimes in part of a residence. There he would have the Keeper of The Book, white an entry in it saying something like this: "Thomas Smith, near by the Mills, has 7 week old pigs to sell."

* *

Another man coming in later to the Book in which this entry was written, might get the information about the pigs and purchase them from Thomas Smith. Thus the Office of Intelligence became an actual exchange of information about goods and service wanted for sale in that community.

* *

Some time later the books at the Office of Intelligence came to hold what we today call news items. Perhaps it started on a day when William Jones, the shopkeeper found it impossible for him to be at his store for a day or two. Thus these books soon also began to serve as clearing houses for news items as well as for advertising.

* *

Only two publications were officially allowed during the period of English history known as the Commonwealth. Mercuris Publicus was the name of one of these publications and the other was named The Publick Intellegencer which was started in 1655. Both of these were small format "newsbooks" with pages about 5x7 inches.

* *

The public function of these official newsbooks was evident fro mthe very beginning in the first issue of the "Publick Intelligencer" dated from Monday, October 1 to Monday, October 8, 19655.

* *

The first article was headed: "A Declaration of His Highness Council [n Scotland For Election of Magistrates". It was an official announcement of an election which Oliver Cromwell, Lord Protector of England, had authorized.

* *

The public notice began:

"Whereas by an Order of his Highness, the Lord Protector of the Commonwealth of England, Scotland, and Ireland and the Dominions thereto belonging, bearing the date of the Twelfth of April One Thousand Six Hundred and Fifty Four.

"Scotland is united into one Commonwealth with England and therein it appears that the Shires and Burghs by their Deputies are convened at Dalkeith."

* *

The entire publication is given over to the official notice to the public of England and Scotland.

* *

All succeeding number of The Publick Intelligencer and its sister publication were devoted primarily to public notices.

* *

Cromwell's decisions in all public matters were made the subject of official notices under the general heading of "Advertisements" in these two official newsbooks.

* *

In 1655 after the petition from the leaders of a large group of Jewish immigrants for permission to live in England, Cromwell published such an advertisement of his decision. The official public notice was separated, as is done today, from the news announcement of the arrival of the Jews.

* *

Entire publications were filled with official notices, from 1966 or whenever the king and his ministers, or the officials of London had important regulations to establish.

* *

On July 6, 1655 at the height of the Black Plague epidemic in London a special publication without regularity of frequency was printed. The publication was called "The News Published For The Satisfaction and Information of The People With Privilege."

* *

It was put out with the expressed purpose of establishing regulations governing the burning of infected clothes, furniture and even dwellings.

* *

The News (originally spelled Newes) was a four page paper in a foremat similar to the Court's Official London Gazette.

* *

The main headline of the paper read: "Orders Conceived and Published by the Lord Mayor and Aldermen of the City of London Concerning the Infection of the Plague of 1665.

Regulations were given in detail under such heading as

Ford Wins Motor Trend's "Car of the Year" Award

January 8: Motor Trend magazine's "Car of the Year" Award goes to an engineering breakthrough! It honors all the '64s from Ford "For engineering advancement in the concept of Total Performance, proven in open competition."

Thunderbird, Falcon, Super Torque Ford, Fairlane (reading counterclockwise): winners of Motor Trend's "Car of the Year" Award

Here's what the Motor Trend Award means to you...

The editors of Motor Trend, America's largest general automotive magazine, watched Ford's total performance in open competition . . . saw competition-modified Fords win every 500-mile stock car race in the last year, saw Ford-built engines and an era at Indianapolis and sweep the sports car circuits.

Then they drove the 1964 Fords, Falcons, Fairlanes and Thunderbirds and discovered how the lessons of open competition have helped breed into them a new kind of total performance for the open road, for your kind of driving. And then they made their award!

The "Car of the Year" Award is an impressive testimonial, but see for yourself—take the wheel of a '64 from Ford. These cars speak for themselves with their ease of handling in a supermarket parking lot or their greater stability on a rain-slick blacktop.

Before you buy any new car this year, test-drive total performance in a Solid, Silent Super Torque Ford, now hundreds of pounds more car than anything in its field. Try America's only total performance compact, the Falcon V-8, totally new, totally changed. Or, any of the '64 Cars of the Year from Ford!

TRY TOTAL PERFORMANCE FOR A CHANGE!

CHS Cagers Down Dublin

The Comanche High School basketball teams swept a pair of games from Dublin Friday night at Dublin.

The Indian Maidens, who have won four straight District 8-AA games, easily downed the Dublin girls 57-32.

The Indians, led by high-scoring Center Hugh Fletcher, handed the Dublin Lions their third district loss, 58-49.

It was the Maidens all the way in the first game, as they jumped off to a quick lead and won handily. Dorothea Byrd, senior forward for the Maidens, led the scoring with 20 points. Sandra Coan with 16 points and Nan Henson's 11 closed out the scoring for the starting forwards. The reserve forwards accounted for the remainder of the Maidens' points. Pam Ormsby had 4 points, Lilly Fay Northcutt 2, and Linda Hicks 2.

Comanche's All-District Center 6'5" Hugh Fletcher scored half the Indians' points in the 58-49 win over Dublin. Fletcher hit 9 times from the field and added 11 charity tosses.

Billy Williams, Indian junior forward, was hot from the field, scoring 18 points, Coney Elliott had 4 points, Skipper Shumpes 2, George Salois 2, and Tommy Willis 3 for the Indians.

The Indians never trailed the Lions in the ball game, and maintained a 14-7 first quarter lead; 26-21 at halftime, and 44-31 at the end of the third quarter. The Indians' biggest lead was 15 points near the close of the ball game.

M. E. Gore and Son

RED & WHITE

Miss Gaynelle Shanks Weds Ernest E. Straley Recently

Miss Gaynelle Shanks of Angleton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Shanks, 3008 Erwin, Victoria, and Ernest E. Straley, Jr. of Angleson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest E. Straley, Sr. of Comanche, recited wedding vows in a ceremony performed by Clifton Crisp, minister of the Central Church of Christ on Dec. 26.

Two stands of seven lighted tapers entwined with greenery and co-ordinated with two large arrangements of palms flanked a large arrangement of white gladiolas to decorate the church.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white peau de soie featuring a fitted bodice with Sabrina neckline, long self-buttoned sleeves tapering to petal points and full skirt that formed a chapel train. Lace applique with iridescent crystals adorned the bodice and train. Her crown of seed pearls and crystals held a shoulder-length illusion veil. A white orchid with falling satin streamers formed the bridal bouquet. Her jewelry was a diamond pendant, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Sylvia Musselman of Angleton was maid of honor and Miss Shirley McLennon on San Antonio, was bridesmaid.

The attendants wore rose peau de soie street-length dresses with matching shoes and head-dresses of velvet and tulle. They carried long stemmed pink carnations with matching streamers.

The bride's mother chose a pale blue wool sheath with jacket, dyed to match shoes and blue flowered hat and white gloves. Her corsage was of pink sweetheart roses.

The bridegroom's mother was attired in a blue dress with black accessories and a corsage of pink sweet heart roses.

Johnny Clark of Houston was best man and David Musselman was groomsman. Harry Shanks, cousin of the bride, Raimo Jones and John Paul were ushers.

Eddie Joe Hunt, soloist, sang, "Because," and the church choir sang nuptial music.

Harry Shanks and John Paul served as candle lighters.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents immediately following the ceremony.

A large bouquet of white gladiolas formed a background for the bride's table an darrangements of lily of the valley and white bows were placed at vantage points. The bride's table held a tiree tiered confection decorated with pink sugar spun roses and silver and white leaves surrounding a miniature bride and bridegroom.

Mrs. Harry Shanks, cousin of the bride, served punch and Miss Darlene Svoboda served cake. Mrs. John Paul served coffee. Assisting were Mrs. Ed Shanks, Mrs. Raimo Jones and Mrs. Homer Martin. Miss Diane Straley registered guests.

For a wedding trip to Houston the bride wore a two piece pink wool dress with champagne brocade coat and accessories and an orchid corsage.

The couple are residing at Anglewood Manor, Apt. 14¼, Angleton, Texas.

The bride attended Victoria High School, Victoria College and received her BS Degree from Southwest Texas State College. She was a member of Pi Gamma Mu and Phi Theta Kappa, and a member of the Varsity Tennis teach at Victoria College. The bride is a teacher in Junior High School at Angleton.

The bridegroom attended Comanche High School and the University of Texas. He is presently employed by Dow Chemical Co. in Freeport.

Out-of-town guests included the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Straley and Dianne of Comanche, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Kitz and daughter, Sharon, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Clark of Houston; Mrs. Luciana Smith, Shirley McLennon, San Antonio; Mr. and Mrs. George Benbow, Yoakum; Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Sawyer, North Attleboro, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Joyner, Port Lavaca; and Mrs. Leon Materanek of Corpus Christi.

Recent Events

The bride was honored at several events preceding her marriage. Mrs. Raimo Jones entertained with a miscellaneous shower and a personal shower was given by Mrs. Homer Martin with Mrs. Fred Billings as co-hostess. Mrs. Cecil Fudge honored the bride with a coffee.

256 DIFFERENT CHURCHES . . . WHERE DID THEY COME FROM?

"Except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it." (Psa. 127:1). "Every plant which my heavenly Father hath not planted, shall be rooted up." (Matt. 15:13). "Upon this rock, I will build MY church." (Matt. 16:18). "For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ." (1 Cor. 3:11). "I have laid the foundation, and another buildeth thereon, But let every man take heed how he buildeth thereon." (1 Cor. 3:10).

From these few verses wet get this picture. Every detail of a DIVINE institution must be in harmony with the plans of the builder. If not—it will be rejected. Jesus is responsible for his church—the church of Christ. From him must come the specifications: not from man. Any church built from the blueprints or specifications of man cannot be the Lord's church.

Paul was certainly teaching this lesson in the first epistle to the Corinthians. Division was in existence there. Different groups were following after different men, thus destroying God's building, the church. "If any man defile (destroy) the temple of God, him shall God destroy." (1 Cor. 3:17). Then Paul reminded them of the divine foundation—Christ—and of the fact that care must be taken not to build in harmony with the ideas or wisdom of men. He exhorted them to not even follow him, except as he folled Christ. "Be ye followers (imitators) of me, even as I also am of Christ." (1 Cor. 11:1). The fact that he was an apostle did not make him infallible—free from mistake. He was still human, hence the warnings. Remember, they were to speak the same thing and to be of the same mind and of the same judgment. (1 Cor. 1:10). Not only did he exhort them to unity but he gave them the basis for that unity. They were certainly to be of "the same mind" but that was to be in harmony with "the mind of Christ". The wisdom and ideas of men in the building and maintaining of the spiritual house—the church—would be superfluous. "These things brethren, I have in a figure transformed to myself and Apollos for your sakes; that in us ye might learn not to go beyond the things which are written." (1 Cor. 4:6, ASV). The King James translation says fundamentally the same: "that ye might learn in us not to think (of men-above that which is written."

In this present time there are at least 256 different churches. All speak NOT "the same things" but different things and are NOT of the same mind nor the same judgment. Their builders are simply men and their specifications are gotten from the books men have written or from the decrees handed down by religious councils. The only book that contains the divine blueprint for God's building—the church of Christ—is the New Testament. The only men who ever had the power to speak for heaven, in revealing these blueprints, were the apostles. (Matt. 18:18). The reason they could be depended upon was because God gave them enabling power to speak ALL truth. (Jn. 14:26). And even they, themselves, warned us not to follow their wisdom but the wisdom which was given them by God. Since no man has had that power since their day, every institution which has been built on a foundation or with material different from that of the New Testament, must of necessity be rejected as the product of human weakness. It makes no difference how large a thing may be nor how prosperous, "If the Lord build not the house, they labor in vain who build it."

We welcome your comments, questions and attendance.

Ordinary advertisements became so numerous in English newspap-ers after 1688 that some news-papers refused to take an ad-vertisements at all; and in fact established separate papers to handle ads only.

Here is an advertisement from a paper of that era:

A Summary of the Facts Relating to the Origin of Public Notices

1. Public notices are as old as human society. Its origins are shrouded in the mysteries of an-tiquity.

2. The Bible records many times when people were notified to be taxed or to obey some oth-er government decree.

3. In ancient times, the Greeks and Romans discussed public af-fairs in their forums and market places. Few common people, how-ever, had the right to hear, and none the right to participate in these discussions.

4. The posting of public notices in the city squares or market places was necessary in the an-cient times solely because print-ing had not been invented. There was no speedy, reliable, conven-ient, inexpensive way to give pub-lice notices such as we have to-day in the newspapers.

5. The earliest "news books" Mercurius Gallo-Belgicus, was useless as a vehicle of public notice because it was published only every two years.

6. "Offices of Intellegence" and "Offices of Information" sprang up on the Continent (date un-known) to serve as a central ex-change of information about things for sale and things want-ed.

7. These Offices of Intellegence soon came to be central ex-changes of news and public af-fairs as well.

8. These first English news sheets called "Corontos" had noth-ing in them but news about for-eign wars. They were irregularly published.

9. "Newsbooks" issued regular-ly, usually once a week, came in-to being about 1641, when the reign of King Charles I was suc-ceeded by the Parliament of the Commonwealth.

10. Throughout most of the Commonwealth period, only two such newsbooks were allowed to exist. Mercurius Publicus and the Publick Intellegencer, some time censured by John Milton, became the two official newsbooks of Cromwell's government. They were devoted mainly to Official Notices.

11. King Charles II. when he and his court fled the Black Death in London in 1665, estab-lished the Oxford Gazette, later called The London Gazette. It was the court's newspaper and for quite a while carried only of-ficial court notices. Later it print-ed the official notices for the of-ficials of London and for some parts of the Kingdom.

12. Public Notices became com-mon in English newspapers af-ret 1688.

13. In some cases entirely sep-arate newspapers were establish-ed exclusively to publish public notices and advertisements.

14. All these public notices from the beginning were set in small type; usually the regular body type of newspapers. Italics were used for the purpose of em-phasis.

15. Public notice soon became to be set apart from the rst of the paper. They were soon sep-arated even from other adver-tisements. In many papers they were set in a different size or kind of type.

16. "Required" was the word used to designate public notices ordered to be published by Eng-lish officials. This word was not used in ordinary advertising nor in news articles.

17. Very early, the public not-ices were departmentalised, that is, they were set off from the rest of the paper, most often place don the last of four pages, and run below a cut-off rule.

18. It is significant that these public notices ran in advertising space not mixed in with the news at least as early as 1690.

19. No illustrative material or pictures were ever used in con-nection with public notices in English papers, such as were us-ed in commercial advertisements.

20. Public notices in American newspapers followed the English style. Such notices were common as early as 1900 and newspapers from 1921 on were seldom with-out some of these public notices.

What You Did Not Hear In War Time

"We will never feel that we are living in a post-war period," said The Menard News in 1944, "until we can hear these once familiar statements:

"I have an apartment for rent."

"It isn't worth repairing."

"Yes, we have plenty of soap and washing powder."

Emergency Loans Available Here Through Farmers Home Office

Congressman Omar Burleson, in a telegram to The Chief on Tuesday, announced Comanche County had been designated as eligible for Emergency Agricultural Loans through the Farmers Home Administration.

Emergency Loans Defined

Emergency loans are made to eligible farmers in designated areas where natural disasters such as floods and droughts have brought about a temporary need for credit not available from other sources. Loans may be made for the purchase of feed, seed, fertilizer, replacement equipment and livestock, and for other items needed to maintain normal operations. Loans may not be made to refinance debts or compensate applicants for their losses.

Emergency loans may also be made outside of designated areas to farmers who have been affected by disaster when the disaster effects only one or a few farms.

Loans are scheduled for repayment when income from the crop or livestock financed is normally received. The interest rate is 3 percent.

Loans vary considerably in size depending upon the system of farming to be financed and the actual needs of the applicants.

Preston Smith Seeks Re-Election

AUSTIN, Jan. 23. — Preston Smith of Lubbock today announced his candidacy for a second term as Lieutenant Governor. He called for "an intelligent and determined effort" to trim nonessentials from the State's 1965-66 budget.

"Texas is spending $3.2 billion this biennium, and the pressure will be on the Legislature to go much higher next session," Lt. Gov. Smith said. "If this happens, it will mean a tax increase. This we should make all reasonable efforts to avoid."

He cited President Johnson's economy drive at the federal level as a good example for state and local governments to follow.

"A dollar saved at the statehouse or courthouse adds just as much to the private economy as one saved at Washington," he said.

Smith said he realized that necessary functions of State government must be adequately financed. A rapidly increasing population, he noted, places a growing load on both State and local governments, particularly for education.

He suggested, as examples, three areas in which legislation might help solve crucial problems without adding perceptibly to the State's tax burden:

1. A review of state laws relating to municipalities, aimed at bringing old laws up to date and possible opening up additional revenue sources for hard-pressed city governments.

2. Cooperation of the Texas Employment Commission, Texas Youth Council, and possibly other state agencies with local authorities and private citizens in creating special employment opportunities for young people. He cited the successful "Youth, Inc." program at Wichita Falls as a sample of what can be done by interested businessmen to solve a community problem.

3. Passage of legislation to permit the formation of multi-county junior colleges, and other moves to make it simpler for eligible counties to use this means of alleviating the higher education crisis.

"We are rightfully concerned with the high standards and quality programs at state senior colleges and universities," Smith said, "but let's not forget the 80 to 90 percent of our young people who for one reason or another will not be able to get a college degree."

Smith commented on responses to a questionnaire he sent to thousands of Texas citizens, asking them what issues they considered most pressing at state and local levels. The most frequently mentioned areas were: water, local control, fiscal responsibility, industrial development, education and employment.

The Lieutenant Governor recalled that the 1963 session of the Legislature was notable for harmonious relations between the two houses and with Governor John Connally's office. He said he expected this healthy relationship to continue.

Smith served six years in the House and six in the Senate before winning the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant Governor in 1962 and defeating the Republican nominee in the General Election.

He and his wife Ima have two children, Mickey, 22, and Jan, 18, both Texas Tech students.
